

X10 Xtravaganza!

New ways to use X10 in your home

Say "Cheese!"

This is one candid camera that will leave you smiling. When an intruder approaches, the X10 FloodCam ($129.99) instantly shines its powerful floodlights on the subject and can capture all of the action on videotape. The camera will transmit a picture, via the built-in 2.4-GHz transmitter, to a video receiver (included in the starter kit), which connects easily to any TV in your home. No additional sensors, no new installations and no new wiring; the unit uses your existing power lines. Send wireless signals through walls, up to 100 feet away. The unit can also be set up to work with your PC.

For more information, contact X10 Wireless Technology, Inc., 800-675-3044, www.x10.com

Got X10?

Send in your X10 and you may be building yourself one hot home theater! Send your X10 projects, tips and more. If we print your submission, we'll send you a copy of the book Build Your Own Home Theater, Second Edition by John J. Adams and Robert Wolenik.

We want to hear from you! Send your X10 info to ha@ehpub.com or mail it to HA, 526 Boston Post Road, Ste 150, Wayland, MA 01778. Submissions can range from 100 to 1200 words; pictures are encouraged!

No limit on submissions; limit one book per household. Please include your email address, mailing address and daytime telephone number. All submissions become the property of EH Publishing. HA has the right to edit for space.

Build Your Own Home Theater is currently available for $24.99. For more information, call 800-366-2665 or go to www.NewnesPress.com.